ABOUT SCUBA RANGERS

Scuba diving is an awesome sport. You're like an astronaut floating weightlessly in space. In fact, NASA astronauts train for space shuttle missions in a huge water tank, and scuba divers are there to help them. Scuba divers are explorers, archaeologists, treasure hunters, and scientists. Scuba divers discover amazing things every day, because the oceans, rivers and lakes of the world are the last frontiers left on the planet.

Scuba divers also work in dive stores, at exotic resorts, on oil rigs, in the military, and on hundreds of other jobs that require people to go underwater. Scuba divers also dive for fun and adventure. You can see sharks, dolphins, seals, and thousands of types of fish. You can dive in kelp, on coral reefs, in lakes anywhere that looks interesting and makes you wonder, "What's down there?" If you're looking for a new activity that's way cooler than soccer, snowboarding, karate and skydiving, check out scuba diving and the Scuba Rangers!

MISSION OF SCUBA RANGERS

The mission of Scuba Rangers is simple: to involve children in scuba diving and pass along the excitement of water exploration.

Our goal is for thousands and thousands of kids to develop a long-term affinity with the sport of scuba diving by the time they are 12 years old. The intent is that when they become adults, and are making recreational decisions, they will retain the affinity for scuba diving and pursue it as their passion

Scuba Rangers session are every 2 weeks on Sunday mornings for about 1.5 hours
